Peter Seidel taught art at Friends Central School from 1992 until 2018. He also taught at both Drexel University and at Moore College of Art & Design. His exhibition record and awards may be viewed on his website: www.peterseidelart.com

Most of these paintings were made over the last couple of years in a burst of work done in a freshly renovated work-space. Like the paintings shown in two prior exhibitions in this gallery, these paintings are explorations of modern subjects; supermarket treasures such as mouthwash that are often used but perhaps seldom seen. Unexpected and kaleidoscopic shapes of transparent color continue to form the basis of the compositions. While the perennial themes of color and light remain an ongoing interest, it is my hope that this new work lives up to the name of the popular mouthwash flavor; a Fresh Burst.
